THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1893.

THE WORLD'S FAIR OPENED.

In the presence of people from every country and clime, surrounded by his cabinet ministers, high officials of the great states, the diplomats and representatives of foreign nations and a vast concourse of American citizens, President Cleveland on Monday pressed the button which released the great mechanical forces of the Columbian exposition at Chicago. At once a heavy salute from the guns of the United States ship Andrew Johnson greeted the nation's greeting and 700 flags were released to the breeze, while a great wave of music pealed forth. Thus was the great exposition formally thrown open to the world.

At 10 o'clock, the hour for the opening ceremonies, the rush reached its height. The committee to call upon the president was at the Lexington hotel early. The President and his cabinet were ready, and the distinguished party was soon on its way to the grounds. The Duke of Veragua accompanied the presidential party as did also Vice-President Stevenson, the members of the national commission and the fair directors.

The procession moved south on Michigan avenue to Fifty-first street, thence on the grand boulevard to South park, entering the western gateway on Bryant avenue. All along the route the great men were cheered by the multitudes.

The party, after entering the grounds, drove rapidly to the administration building where the exercises were held. Already thousands were in the grounds. In the center of the great platform erected for the occasion there stood a special stand upon which President Cleveland, Vice President Stevenson, the duke of Veragua and officers of the fair took their places. Immediately in the rear sat the diplomatic corps, and on their right were the governors of the states, army officers and other officials.

Behind was the great orchestra. Right under the speaker's stand sat 800 representatives of the press from all the nations of the world. Upon the stand for distinguished guests were over 2,000 people and the sight was an inspiring one. The ceremonies commenced with the rendition of the United States senate, Rev. Dr. W. H. Milburn, was led forward. He prayed for about ten minutes, but what he said could scarcely be heard owing to the confused murmur of voices in the vast crowds. Following came Miss Jessie Courtwright, a Chicago elocutionist, who recited W. A. Croffutt's poem, "The Prophecy," composed for the occasion.

The orchestra rendered the Reini overture by Wagner, and Director-General Davis stepped forward, first bowing to the president and then to the assembly. He delivered a lengthy address, which was to a great extent a history of the exposition and a tribute to the master minds which created the great buildings.

President Cleveland then briefly and to the point delivered the address opening the fair, and extending America's welcome to the world who may visit it.

No rain fell during the opening ceremonies and the fair officials congratulated themselves that everything proceeded smoothly as it did, despite the mud and slush. Owing to the tremendous crowds it was somewhat later than the appointed time when the ceremonies were begun.

In many places there are indications of incompleteness and many exhibits were missing, but the people who attended the opening day were surprised at the magnificence of the building. The rush to the gates was something awful and over 2,000 police were necessary to prevent blockades and to keep the people from being crushed to death. The entrances were many, however, and considering the occasion there was remarkable order.

The streets and avenues in the vicinity of the grounds were packed with vehicles and cable cars, but the police were vigilant and kept them moving. Estimates of the number of people who entered the gates on Monday are roughly made at from 250,000 to 400,000.

THE ACTIVE GAS METER.—The New Nation says: "It has been testified by competent authorities at legislative hearings, and so far as we have been able to ascertain is undisputed, that it is possible to make gas meters register any desired consumption although not a jet has been lighted, simply by alternately increasing and reducing the pressure in the mains, thus forcing the gas through the meters, and back, taking advantage of the fact that it registers only one way." It is a common thing to hear the ordinary meter clicking through the daytime, when there is no flow of gas from the burners, but whether it is simply to keep the machinery from becoming rusty dependent with not.

THE NEWS OF NEW YORK

(Special Correspondence of the Gazette)

NEW YORK, May 1st.—"Greasy" Hobbs is only a newsboy now, but one of these days he may turn out to be a Napoleon of Wall street. The other day he was selling papers on Park Row near the Brooklyn Bridge, when a stylish brougham driven by a Negro Coachman came into view. "Greasy" got in its way, the hub of one of the wheels struck him on the knee, knocking him down. The boy grabbed his knee and began yelling as if half killed. In the swell carriage was a dapper little man who heard the screams, and jumped out.

"Are you much hurt, my lad?" "Wow, wow, wow!" yelled "Greasy," and his friends who had gathered around him looked sympathetic. "Take that," said the man, nervously, tossing the boy a $2 bill, and then he ran back to his carriage and ordered the driver to whip up. As the brougham passed quickly out of sight the look of pain on "Greasy's" face gave way to a smile, and five minutes later he and his friends were drinking the health of the man who owned the brougham.

A surprising number of child criminals has recently been brought into public notice. Last week in this letter mention was made of the 88,000 arrests during 1892 in New York City. It may seem strange that with the immense work done by churches and societies, the record of crime continues so high. But the cause is not hard to find. Early one morning, recently, two police men saw a light in Frederick Kelley's grocery store, No. 42 Beaver street. Looking in the officers found two burglars kneeling before the safe, about to begin work. The policemen crept into the store with drawn revolvers and commanded the burglars to throw up their hands.

"Please don't shoot! We'll go along with you," cried one of them. They were rushed to the Cedar street station, and when their masks were torn off, the burglars proved to be not men, but boys. They had a splendid lot of burglar's tools—sledge hammer, crowbar, jimmyes, drills, picks, and a big bunch of keys, all of the finest make and very expensive. Their lantern was nickel plated. One of the lads had a loaded seven-shooter, and the other a blackjack. That is bad enough. But the next day four boys, none over eight years of age, were captured by police while ransacking Nilmon's restaurant, on New Street. They had broken in just like any burrow discovered. At the Tombs Police Court they were lectured and set free. A day or two previous three newsboys, aged 16, 14, and 13 years respectively, couldn't make enough money to pay for a lodging, and were arrested on the street, late at night, as vagrants. They were taken to the Oak street Police station and the house sergeant, pitying them, did not lock them in cells, but allowed them free use of the corridors. Painters had been at work there for several days and had neglected to take away a gallon can of turpentine. The newsboys found it and got beastly drunk on it. When mere children act as did the ones here spoken of, what can be done in this great wicked city?

All sorts of rumors about the Reading Railroad are quietly flying about. One is that a part (perhaps the whole) of this great system will soon be controlled by the New York Central. That some strong hand shall take hold of it is greatly to be desired. The possibilities of the Reading are almost unlimited. Its wealth of coal lands, the rich region it traverses and the general excellence of its train service make it a splendid property. Late dispatches say that the Reading has completed arrangements to handle a large passenger business to the World's Fair advantageously both to the Railroad and to the travelling public. The more competition, the better for the people.

Rev T. DeWitt Talmage, celebrated the 24th anniversary of his pastorate of the Brooklyn Tabernacle last Sunday, and first before the morning service spoke about the money troubles of his Church thus:

"A mal apprehension is abroad that the financial exigency of the church is past. Through journalistic and personal friends a breathing spell has been afforded us, but before us yet are financial obligations which must promptly be met, or speedily this house of God will go into worldly uses and become a theatre or concert hall. The $12,000 raised cannot cancel a floating debt of $140,000. Through the kindness of those to whom we are indebted, $60,000 would set us forever free. I am glad to say the case is not hopeless. We are daily in receipt of touching evidences of practical sympathy from all classes of the community and all sections of the country, and it was but yesterday that by my own hand I sent, for contributions gratefully received, nearly fifty acknowledgments east, west, north, and south.

It is needless to say that millions of Talmage's admirers hope to see the debt soon paid. It seems shocking that such a state of affairs should exist in the Church of one of America's greatest preachers.

There seems to be little hope of soon capturing Pallister and Roehl, the two murderers who escaped from Sing Sing prison. Their desperate manner of escape—throwing red pepper in the eyes of two keepers, knocking them senseless, and then locking them in cells—was highly dramatic. The idea that those desperadoes are wandering around the country is not pleasant, to say the least. Nobody knows how soon they may meet them, or what they would do in that case.

—Dr. Rainsford, rector of St. George's Church, New York, recently suggested a startling and original method of reforming the liquor traffic. Assuming it as proved that in some form or another alcohol is here to stay, and that its use cannot be entirely abolished, he concluded that the masses of the people must have provided for them some means of procuring drink which would not be accompanied by the evil associations at present connected with the saloons. What are we to do, therefore, with the mass of the populace that demand alcohol in some shape or other? The answer to this question Dr. Rainsford finds in the fact that amusement, variety, aroused interest are the true and deadliest foes to the drink habit, and he contends that what the people need is a public house that will be no mere dram shop, but will be in effect a club house, providing food of various kinds, amusement such as music, and making the sale of milk, coffee and tea as much its staple trade as beer, wines, etc. He proposes that groups of people in our large cities should establish such public houses, which would be effective rivals of the saloons by cheering the sadly monotonous lives of a large part of our city population. To secure the widest discussion of this suggestion, Dr. Rainsford has adopted a somewhat unique plan. He will write two articles on the subject, the first of which appears in the May number of the North American Review. In this he will define his theory briefly, and invite the public at large to send him questions and criticisms regarding it. His second article will appear in the June number of the Review, and in it he will answer the most pertinent of the questions and criticisms which have been sent to him. All communications should be addressed to the Rev. W. S. Rainsford, D. D., care of the North American Review, No. 3 East Fourteenth Street, New York City, and should be in his hands not later than May 12th.

Will We Have Cholera?
If such is to be the deplorable state of affairs, it would not be wise to overlook any precautionary measure. The cheapest and best way to improve the sanitary condition of your home is to scrape off the old paper and have new put on. The Fidelity Wall Paper Co., of 12 North Eleventh Street, Philadelphia, are selling good embossed papers for 12 and 15 cents. Send four two cent stamps for samples.

Both Had Eczema
In Its Worst Form
After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.
Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents: "To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the'

to me last night. How much do you suppose we have paid out for doctors and medicine in the last year? I told her I did not know. To doctors I have paid nothing, and five dollars worth of Sulphur Bitters has kept health in our family.—L. Andrews, 12 Bowdoin street, Boston.

Found Dead.
Last evening a person giving the name of G. R. Thompson registered at Hunt's Hotel, and desired to be called in season to take the 12 P. M. train for Chicago. Being unable to awaken him, the room was entered by means of the ventilator over the door, when the gentleman was found to be dead. He was advertising agent for Sulphur Bitters, which has an extensive sale. The coroner returned a verdict of death from heart disease. His body will be sent east immediately.—City Commercial.

The increase in practice and lack of room has compelled me to take larger and more central accommodations. I wish to extend my hearty thanks to my patients and friends for the success I have had in the past year, and propose to do the same good work at reasonable prices.

Dr. Hecken will be at office on next Wednesday morning, to extract teeth without pain by his improved method.

This expression applies directly to the Wisconsin Central Lines, which is now admitted by all to be "The Route" from Chicago to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Ashland, Duluth and all points in the Northwest. Their double daily train service and fine equipment offers inducements which cannot be surpassed. Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, May 1, 1893.
The 110,000 yards of Gingham at eight cents—from 12 1/2¢—are conquering the town.
The counter at which are sold the Plaid Stuffs is boasting now rich Novelties in Silk and wool at half prices, near by are Serges at 50c, in many colors, worth 80c. Equally cheap are the Whipcords at 60 and 75c.
Other rare things go thus: Silk and wool Epingline Plaids are down, $1.75 to $1.25; same materials, changeable plaid, go from $2 to $1.25, and a choice variety, Velour and Epingline, go from $2.50.

Nine styles Melange Plaids, rare, try on the price steps and fall from $1.25 to 75c, 45 in. Can't tell about them, they must be seen.

Six styles Plumetis Plaids were $1.25, are $1; 42 in. Just out of the import cases and first shown this morning: First. Silk-striped Epingline, very beautiful, $1.25. All the season until to-day $2.50.

Second. Silk and wool Hop Sacking, exclusive, has been $5, is $2.
Third. Mixed Stripes, gems for traveling dresses, $1.25; never before less than $2.

The last three items are fit responses to the Gingham—the Hop Sacking at $2 is relatively cheap as the Gingham at eight cents.

And so there is bargain music all along the line.

Another surprise! No, nothing is a surprise at Wanamaker's. Would be elsewhere. Look!

Lupin's Iron Frame Hernani—black. Pure silk and wool. No cotton carded in stuff with some of the mongrel stuffs which profess to be Hernani bargains. The meshes are sure, not slippery. But you and Lupin are so completely in rapport that all this seems like merely introducing life-long friends.

This is the way prices go: 65c quality is $1.00 75c quality is 50c 85c quality is 60c All 28 inches wide.

The high grades and greater widths sympathize in the reductions, thus: $1.25 quality is $1.00 $1.50 quality is $1.25 $2.00 quality is $1.50 $2.50 quality is $2.00 All 45 inches wide.

Lupin's again. This time black Mexican. You know the Spanish-like brunette stuff. In fibre and construction the pendant to Hernani. It goes this morning from $1.25 to Sixty-five Cents.

A trade riddle? Yes, but don't fool your time in guessing it. Buy the stuff.

Very likely the Costume-style your dress-maker advises was suggested in that great gathering, Thirteenth and Chestnut streets, second floor.

Hints there for the brightest of them. Nowhere else in America can so many new Dress thoughts be seen. Costumes for any service. The more you see of them the less you'll wonder why so many women of taste and means are buying their Dresses ready-made.

Base Ball Goods—anything. If there's a good Bat shape or a new, you'll find it somewhere in the long line between Boys' Maple, 5c, and Spalding's New Model Oval, $1.50. So of Balls, from Rockets 5c to League $1.25. Or of Masks or Gloves or Mitts or Body Protectors—or Score Books even. Nothing overlooked. All sorts of Sporting things are handled in the same way.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

A special meeting of Council was held last Monday evening to take action on the trolley ordinance, and upon the petitions of citizens of the Second, Third and Fourth wards, relative to the formation of hose companies in each of those wards.

The members present were T. B. Clark, Messrs. Curran, Clark, Fetrow, Grundy, Kelly, Maule, McFadden, Robinson, Strauser, Smith, Spring, Scott, Wright, Weaver and Wood.

On motion of J. C. Maule the ordinance was taken up and considered by sections, and after an argument in its favor by B. F. Gilkeson, Corporation Counsel, was adopted as a whole, all the members, excepting Fetrow, of the Third ward, voting in its favor.

The ordinance as it finally passed Council appears in the GAZETTE to day.

The petitions from residents of the Second, Third and Fourth wards, asking for 500 feet of hose for each ward, and accompanied by the names of the officers of the companies formed in each of those wards, were read, and on motion of J. R. Grundy were referred to the committee on Fire Protection, with instructions that they take into consideration the wants of the petitioners.

Council then adjourned.

In order to increase the efficiency of the Bristol fire service, a number of the residents of the Second, Third and Fourth wards have formed organizations in each of those wards. They propose to go hose reels, and to provide houses in which to keep them, and have asked Council to equip each company with 500 feet of hose. There is but little doubt but that Council will accede to the request. The Second ward company is organized with about twenty-five members, and the following officers: have been chosen President, R. B. Kelly, Secretary, C. A. Wilson, Treasurer, G. A. Shoemaker, Foreman, J. Paxson Strading, assistant foreman, Eugene Fite, trustees, J. N. DeGroot, Edward M. Pearce and Alpheus Peterson. The Third ward officers are President, Lewis Spring, vice president, Robert Porter, secretary, Doron Green, treasurer, Charles P. Yeaman, foreman, William McCoy, Jr., assistant foreman, Joseph Harrison, trustees, Abram Eitinger, Samuel Milnor and John Smoyer. The Fourth ward officers are John B. Myers, president, Ebenezer Lund, secretary, John C. Adam, treasurer, Frank S. Moss, foreman, and Hubert Crother and Benjamin Groff, trustees.

PAWNEE BILL THE GREAT!

Let Canada speak for herself, through her own newspapers, about Pawnee Bill's Wild West, given at Point St. Charles. Here is an extract from the Montreal Gazette: "Pawnee Bill's Wild West, at the Driving Park at Point St. Charles yesterday, is worthy of great complimentary notice. The horses were good runners, the riders were rickles and brilliant horsemen, the Indians were all of the simon pure brand, painted and befeathered and blanketed in correct aboriginal style, the girl riders were female centaurs, the rifle shooting was next to marvelous, and the blood curdling yells of the red men in their attacks on the stage coach and the settler's cabin, made every spectator—except the bald ones—involuntarily clap his or her hand to his or her head to see that his scalp or her switch was securely in place. The bucking bronchos, too, furnished an amount of exciting amusement that was astonishing, considering the generally forlorn aspect of one of these crosses between an equine earthquake and a gravity railway."

He comes here in a few days with an outfit on his own train of splendid palace cars—the only organization of the kind traveling thus in the world. His list of attractions is enormous and startling. Some of the leading features, to all of which one ticket admits a person are as follows: Fireworks, great Indian chiefs, representatives from every tribe in America, including Diggers, Mojaves, who cremate their dead, and other obscure people, Senor Francisco and Mexican vaqueros, Mustang Walter and American cowboys, boys of Mexican and Western beauty, wild guides of the Pampas, a band of genuine Bedouin Arabs, an Indian village complete in every detail, reproductions of Mountain Meadow Massacre and Wounded Knee Fight, Sioux and Mexican bands of musicians, parks of flying artillery, a herd of living buffalo, droves of Texas steers, spotted mustangs, bucking bronchos, and an Indian museum, with a host of celebrities, who will be seen at every performance.

The parade will begin at 10 A. M., the performances at 2 and 3 P. M., there will be seats for everybody and ladies and children will be specially looked after. Children under 9 will be admitted at half price and the inclosure at night will be so brilliantly illuminated as to be as light as a Spring forenoon.

HOUSE CLEANING HINTS.

THINGS IN WHICH THE HOUSEWIFE IS INTERESTED.

In this season of general upturning and house cleaning it may not be amiss to remember that ammonia in water cleanses glass and paint much better than soap does, that it sometimes costs less to have a badly soiled room repainted, after a moderate use of the mop and brush, than it does to have it scrubbed and scoured, to say nothing of the expenditure of strength, that salt and vinegar brightens brass as well as any more modern and expensive polishes, that a small bag of charcoal hung in a rain water barrel purifies it perfectly, that plaster busts and statues may be cleaned, when it is not desired to paint them, by dipping them into thick liquid starch and drying, and when the starch is brushed off the dirt is brushed off with it, that it is a good plan to go over the bedsteads, as delays in these days, when the sun has become strong, is apt to increase the trouble there, that it is wise to open the campaign at the top of the house and in the unused rooms, and so give less confusion and prominence to the affair, that, on reaching their breeding haunts at the bottom of the house, powdered toxas mixed with a little powdered sugar and scattered about in spots will prove certain and safe to cockroaches and to ants, and if that is not handy, a few drops of turpentine sprinkled here and there will be as effective in the case of these nuisances as it is in the case of moths.

Quick drying Floor Paints are made in various ways, with resinous oil sometimes, and often with cheap varnish. If a floor paint could only be made with a fine varnish, it would be very attractive, both as to its quick-drying properties, high gloss and durability, but such a varnish costs four dollars a gallon, and therefore is out of the question. A paint made with varnish does not spread as nicely as one with oil. The Chilton Floor Paints are made with pure, kettle-boiled Linseed Oil, with as much turpentine as possible. This oil is consistent with durability. Too much dryer takes away from the life of the oil. If, for instance, the floor of the kitchen is to be painted, the first thing to do is to thoroughly wash it with soap and warm water, into which put a little ammonia, perhaps half an ounce to a pail of water. The floor should then be allowed to thoroughly dry. If you can conveniently do so, call in the services of a first-class painter. Paint one or two coats, as necessary, allowing first coat to harden and dry before second is applied. You can use the kitchen about twelve hours after the first coat is put on, and have the second coat put on several days later, if you wish.
